

Kalmar County Council Clinical Research

Kalmar County Council conducts research in order to gain understanding and to provide patients with better health.

Research is an important part of Kalmar County Council and its activities. The medical diagnostics, actions that may result in the form of treatment and rehabilitation efforts are all based on a foundation of science and research together with proven experience.

In Sweden, the county councils together with the state have a shared responsibility for clinical research. Kalmar County Council is involved in the quest to research and development contribute to better health, improved quality of life and reduced social costs.

Kalmar County Council aims to have many of the staff with personal experience of research and development, and to increase understanding of how science and data are developed, which is an important part of understanding how science can be used to achieve best effect.

On these pages, you can read about research topics, publications and researchers in Kalmar County Council.